Sun. Herald 1-29-71
HEBER — Officers for the Mountainland Association of Governments (Region 4) were elected at a district meeting held here.

Elected as president was Russell Wall, commissioner from Heber City. The vice-president position will be filled by Jack Cook, mayor of Pleasant Grove and Carlos L. Porter, commissioner of Coalville, will serve as secretary-treasurer.

The newly organized consolidation of Regional Governments, which represents Utah, Wasatch, and Summit Counties, has been in operation since September.

They have entered into a initial development of a work program and program design to be followed by the association. The major task will be to identify those issues and problems that will be facing the region on both a short range immediate basis as well as in the long range.

Subjects such as regional air and water pollution, transportation and excessive subdivision of land, and problems associated with urbanization and housing will be some of the topics of discussion.

Following a program of identification of the relevant issues facing the region, a program for developing goals and objectives for the region will be established.

The development of a yearly work program will be developed from the programs of the three councils of governments and additional programs which are undertaken by the region. A very positive effort will be made to support the three councils of governments as well as involve them in the regional programs that affect their organizations.
